Stanton Lions hear about conservation from Edison

SPECIAL TO ORANGE COUNTY NEWS

Conservation and price-savings for electrical power were discussed at the Wednesday, Aug. 11 meeting of the Stanton Lions Club. Senior Project Analyst for Edison Cynthia Brown was the speaker. Acknowledging Lions International's reputation for good works, Brown said, "Thank you, to the Lions Clubs around the world."

She noted that the Stanton Lions club is older than the city itself. "We at Edison believe in giving back to the community," Brown said. According to Brown, Edison is committed to conserving energy and helping the community. "Edison employees are expected to volunteer in the community," she said.

One conservation measure Brown suggested was that people wash clothes and use other electrical items in the evening. “Various programs to save money are recommended such as recycling.” Energy Star refrigerators are promoted to help with the programs. Edison will monitor energy-use in homes to initiate savings. Brown said that empty refrigerators result in more energy-use to power them, than if they are full of food. “Energy efficiency lighting lasts 10 times longer and that can save you a lot of money,” Brown said. She suggested to always wash full loads of clothes, and another recommendation by Brown, is to replace washers and driers when they are 10 years or older with Star Energy efficiency appliances.

The Stanton Lions Club meets on the second and fourth Wednesday of each month in their club house at 10581 Chestnut Ave., in Stanton, 90680.
